

Urge you to avoid pre-emption of any state telephone privacy law that is more stringent than proposed federal regulation. Indiana's law provides a comfortably high level of consumer protection and is conveniently manageable (even though not necessarily approved) by marketers.

We are especially concerned that our present law's exemptions not be expanded.